DESCRIPTION

This product is suitable for a variety of civilian scenarios and military combat-related situations. When camping, hiking or mountaineering outdoors in case of abrupt temperature drops or rapid altitude gain, wrapping the body with this product can effectively prevent heat loss and avoid accidents caused by hypothermia. After prolonged outdoor activities such as marathon, cycling, cross-country and wilderness survival, it can prevent hypothermia injuries caused by excessive rapid body heat dissipation. In military scenarios, it can serve as lightweight and high-efficiency thermal insulation gear in frigid and high-altitude areas, and also maintain the body temperature of injured personnel with blood loss or shock, striving for precious time for their treatment.
